Tabletop Simulations and Services
Preparing your organization for effective remediation

The Need

Oftentimes organizations get blindsided when an incident occurs, even with a proper plan in place. From the responders to the PR professionals handling the story coverage, there are many moving parts that go well beyond remediation of the incident itself. Having a controlled incident environment to rehearse execution is a critical part of a security strategy. When an incident occurs is too late to find out there are gaps in your response plan.

The Solution

HolistiCyber's Tabletop Services provide a "real life" incident simulation to assess and enhance current response plans from every angle. This allows your organization to preemptively find gaps or places for improvement within the current plan to create a more resilient program in the event of an incident. From the moment the threat is found to how it is communicated to the media, the tabletop simulation will run through all aspects of response. In addition, unique recommendations and optimizations will be made to be as effective as possible in the event of an incident.

What to Expect

- Controlled real-life simulation of an incident specific to the threat model of your organization.
- Gap analysis on current incident response and remediation plan from both the technical and business perspective.
- Unbiased validation of the success points in current plans
